

Dr. Philip Campbell is Editor-in-Chief of Nature and Nature Publications, based in London.

He has a BSc in aeronautical engineering (University of Bristol), an MSc in astrophysics (Queen Mary and Westfield College, University of London) and a PhD and postdoctoral research in upper atmospheric physics (University of Leicester).

His areas of responsibility include the editorial content and management of Nature and the long-term quality of all Nature Publications.

He has worked with the UK Office of Science and Innovation, the European Commission and the US National Institutes of Health on issues relating to science and its impacts in society. He is a trustee of Cancer Research UK.

He is a Fellow of the Royal Astronomical Society and a Fellow of the Institute of Physics. He was awarded an honorary DSc by Leicester University.